Tracking Error

Each of the funds listed in the table employs a "passive" investment strategy designed to replicate the performance of its benchmark index. Some of the funds attempt to fully replicate the index by holding all of the component securities, in approximately the same proportion as their weighting in the index. Other funds instead use an index sampling process, holding a representative sample of securities which approximates the full index in terms of key risk factors and other characteristics.

Tracking error measures the volatility of the return difference between the fund and the index. It is calculated as the standard deviation of the tracking difference between the fund and the index (gross of fees for the trailing 36-month period, or since the fund's inception if it does not have 36 months of performance history). Realised tracking error may vary from the anticipated tracking error, depending on a range of circumstances. These include transaction costs, securities lending income and withholding tax differences. The anticipated tracking error and realised tracking error are not expected to vary significantly under normal circumstances.

There are two types of tracking error displayed for the funds, swung and unswung. The funds use swing pricing, which adjusts each fund's NAV daily to ensure that no transaction costs caused by investing or redeeming clients are borne by the existing shareholders. As a result, the performance difference relative to the benchmark and therefore the tracking error will be higher on a swung basis. Unswung tracking error shows the underlying performance of a fund without swing pricing applied. Additional details regarding the swing pricing policy employed by the funds can be found in Note 3 of the Notes to the Financial Statements.

The table below excludes adjustments for swing pricing.

	Unswung Tracking Error
Fund	Anticipated Tracking Error (%)	Realised Tracking Error (%)	Explanation for Divergence
Equity
Vanguard Emerging Markets Stock Index[1]	0.500	0.186	The fund has tracked its benchmark within acceptable tolerances of its anticipated tracking error.
Vanguard ESG Developed World All Cap Equity Index[2,3]	0.200	0.291	The difference in tracking error is driven by the fact that the fund transitioned from a non-ESG benchmark, the FTSE Developed Index, to an ESG-screened benchmark, the FTSE Developed World All Cap Choice Index, on 13 May 2020.
Vanguard ESG Emerging Markets All Cap Equity Index[2,4]	0.500	0.189	The fund has tracked its benchmark within acceptable tolerances of its anticipated tracking error.

Vanguard SRI European Stock[1]	0.500	0.668	The difference in tracking error is driven by the fact that the fund is tracking a standard benchmark, the FTSE Developed Europe Index, while the fund itself excludes companies in breach of the UN Global Compact and any company involved with tobacco or controversial weapons. The fund is being optimised to match the risk and return characteristics of the benchmark, but because of the extreme market volatility experienced in 2020, the tracking error has elevated.

Vanguard Emerging Markets Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the MSCI Emerging Markets Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of companies in emerging markets.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Central banks responded quickly as well. As of mid-December 2020, asset purchase programmes aimed at least partly at supporting domestic financial markets had been announced or implemented in Chile, India, Indonesia, South Africa and Turkey, among other countries, the World Bank said. The Central Bank of Brazil had been granted emergency power to purchase government bonds. Most emerging-market asset purchase programmes, however, equaled less than 2% of gross domestic product, compared with an average of 14% for such programmes in developed economies, according to the World Bank.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment rebounded in the second half of 2020. Confidence improved as vaccines were developed and the global economy appeared to regain its footing faster than many had expected. Returns in the United States outpaced those in emerging markets and especially those in Europe.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 18.31% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2020.
- Three of the four largest sectors in the index by market value – information technology, consumer discretionary and communication services, which together accounted for nearly half of the benchmark – powered the index's result. Declines in energy and financials offset some of those gains.
- Chinese companies accounted for three-quarters of the index's gain. They represented about 40% of the index's market value and returned nearly 30%. Stocks in Taiwanese and Korean companies together accounted for more than 20% of the index and surged more than 40% each.
- Nineteen of the 28 markets in the index declined, offsetting some of the returns from China, Taiwan and Korea. All 19 accounted for small parts of the index, however – most represented less than 1% by market value. Brazilian stocks, which accounted for a bit more than 5% of the benchmark, detracted most, returning about –20%.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world.
- Central banks in the developed world responded rapidly – cutting interest rates, restarting or expanding asset purchases and providing additional liquidity, all in an effort to blunt the economic impact of the virus – and pledged to do more if needed. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment improved in the second half of the year as vaccines were developed and the global economy appeared to regain its footing faster than many had expected.
- Global bonds experienced volatility but produced a solid return. Stocks worldwide plummeted early in the year, but many markets rebounded as investors seemed to grow more optimistic about vaccines, the willingness of consumers to spend and the resiliency of the economy. Returns in the United States outpaced those in emerging markets and especially Europe.
- Please note that in May 2020, the fund was renamed from Vanguard SRI Global Stock Fund and began tracking the FTSE Developed All Cap ex Controversies/ Non-Renewable Energy/Vice Products/Weapons Index. The benchmark was later renamed the FTSE Developed All Cap Choice Index.
- The fund's spliced benchmark returned 18.14% for the 12 months. The fund employs a passive management, or indexing, investment strategy designed to track the performance of the index by investing in all, or a representative sample of, index securities. The index is constructed from the FTSE Developed All Cap Index, which is then screened for certain environmental, social and corporate governance criteria by the sponsor of the index, which is independent of Vanguard.
- In the second half of the year, following the fund's benchmark change, all 11 of the index's industry sectors recorded double-digit gains. Technology, consumer discretionary, financial and industrial companies powered the index's return.
- On a geographic basis, US stocks, which accounted for an average of two-thirds of the index's value in the second half of the year, accounted for virtually all of the index's result.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG Emerging Markets All Cap Equity Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Emerging All Cap Choice Index.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Central banks responded quickly as well. As of mid-December 2020, asset purchase programmes aimed at least partly at supporting domestic financial markets had been announced or implemented in Chile, India, Indonesia, South Africa and Turkey, among other countries, the World Bank said. The Central Bank of Brazil had been granted emergency power to purchase government bonds.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment improved in the second half of 2020 amid the development of vaccines and signs that the global economy was regaining its footing faster than many had expected. Returns in the United States, for example, outpaced those in emerging markets and especially those in Europe.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 27.96% from 9 June, the fund's inception, through 31 December 2020. The index is screened by the sponsor to exclude companies that fail to meet certain environmental, social and corporate governance (ESG) criteria. At launch, the index was the FTSE Emerging All Cap ex Controversies/Non-Renewable Energy/Vice Products/Weapons Index. It was later renamed the FTSE Emerging All Cap Choice Index.
- For roughly the second half of the year, all 11 industry sectors in the index recorded positive returns. Gains in technology, consumer discretionary and financial companies powered the index's strong result. Among markets, Chinese, Taiwanese and Indian stocks were the top contributors.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard European Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI Europe Index, which is made up of common stocks of companies located in Europe.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world.
- Central banks in the developed world responded rapidly – cutting interest rates, restarting or expanding asset purchases and providing additional liquidity, all in an effort to blunt the economic impact of the virus – and pledged to do more if needed. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment improved in the second half of the year as vaccines were developed and the global economy appeared to regain its footing faster than many had expected. The period ended with the negotiation of a trade deal between the UK and the European Union.
- Stocks worldwide plummeted early in the fiscal year, but many markets rebounded as investors seemed to grow more optimistic. Bonds were also relatively volatile worldwide but produced solid returns.
- The fund's benchmark returns 5.38%. Seven of 11 industry sectors produced positive returns. Information technology, consumer discretionary and materials helped performance the most. Financials, energy, communication services and real estate detracted from performance.
- Switzerland and Germany, two of the larger constituents in the index, contributed the most to its performance. Other notable contributors included the Netherlands and Denmark, which returned better than 40%. The United Kingdom, the index's largest weighting, detracted the most.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Performance is based on NAV with net income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Eurozone Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI EMU Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks designed to capture 85% of the underlying euro zone countries' market capitalisation.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world.
- Central banks in the developed world responded rapidly – cutting interest rates, restarting or expanding asset purchases and providing additional liquidity, all in an effort to blunt the economic impact of the virus – and pledged to do more if needed. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment generally improved in the second half of the year as vaccines were developed and the global economy appeared to regain its footing faster than many had expected. The period ended with the negotiation of a trade deal between the UK and the European Union.
- Stocks worldwide plummeted early in the year, but many markets rebounded as investors seemed to grow more optimistic. Bonds were also relatively volatile worldwide but produced solid returns.
- Returns in the United States outpaced those in emerging markets and especially Europe. European markets suffered in part because of the larger presence of cyclical and value-oriented stocks, which generally underperformed more growth-oriented sectors during the period.
- The fund's benchmark returned –1.02%. Only four of the benchmark's 11 industry sectors produced positive returns. Consumer discretionary and information technology made the strongest contribution to performance. Financials and energy were the biggest detractors.
- Among markets, France, the largest constituent in the index, had a negative return and hurt performance the most. Spain, Italy, Belgium and Austria were also laggards. Germany, the second-largest weighting, and the Netherlands were among the markets that contributed positively to performance.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Global Enhanced Equity Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide a total return (income plus capital appreciation) greater than that of the MSCI World Index, while maintaining a risk profile similar to that of the index.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements. The fund is actively managed and seeks to invest as described in the prospectus. The following performance information shows how the fund's returns compare with those of the MSCI World Index, a market index that has investment characteristics similar to those of the fund.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world.
- Central banks in the developed world responded rapidly – cutting interest rates, restarting or expanding asset purchases and providing additional liquidity, all in an effort to blunt the economic impact of the virus – and pledged to do more if needed. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment generally improved in the second half of the year as vaccines were developed and the global economy appeared to regain its footing faster than many had expected.
- Global stocks plummeted early in the fiscal year, but many rebounded as investors seemed to grow more optimistic about vaccines, the willingness of consumers to spend and the resiliency of the economy. The recovery was uneven, though. Returns in the United States, for example, outpaced those in emerging markets and especially those in Europe. Global bonds also experienced volatility but produced solid returns.
- In this environment, the fund underperformed its benchmark index, which returned 15.90% for the year ended 31 December 2020.
- Please note that in late 2020, Vanguard announced it would close the fund because of insufficient investor interest. The fund was officially liquidated shortly after the close of the period, effective 14 January 2021.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Performance is based on NAV with net income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

Vanguard Global Small-Cap Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI World Small Cap Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of small-cap companies in developed countries.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world.
- Central banks in the developed world responded rapidly – cutting interest rates, restarting or expanding asset purchases and providing additional liquidity, all in an effort to blunt the economic impact of the virus – and pledged to do more if needed. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment generally improved in the second half of the year as vaccines were developed and the global economy seemed to regain its footing faster than many had expected.
- Global stocks plummeted early in the year, but many rebounded as investors seemed to grow more optimistic about vaccines, the willingness of consumers to spend and the resiliency of the economy. The recovery was uneven, though. Returns in the United States, for example, outpaced those in emerging markets and especially those in Europe. Bonds worldwide also experienced volatility but produced a solid return.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 15.96% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2020.
- Results were positive in eight of the index's 11 sectors. Health care and utilities contributed most; real estate detracted most.
- US stocks, which account for more than half the index, posted double-digit returns and contributed the most to results. UK stocks were the biggest detractors.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Performance is based on NAV with net income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Global Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI World Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of companies in developed countries.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world.
- Central banks in the developed world responded rapidly – cutting interest rates, restarting or expanding asset purchases and providing additional liquidity, all in an effort to blunt the economic impact of the virus – and pledged to do more if needed. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment generally improved in the second half of the year as vaccines were developed and the global economy appeared to regain its footing faster than many had expected.
- Global stocks plummeted early in the year, but many rebounded as investors seemed to grow more optimistic about vaccines, the willingness of consumers to spend and the resiliency of the economy. The recovery was uneven, though. Returns in the United States, for example, outpaced those in emerging markets and especially those in Europe. Bonds worldwide also experienced volatility but produced a solid return.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 15.90%.
- Results were positive in eight of the index's 11 sectors. Information technology, consumer discretionary and health care contributed most to the index's return. Financials and energy were the biggest detractors.
- US stocks, which account for nearly two-thirds of the index, posted double-digit returns and contributed most to results. The United Kingdom was the biggest detractor.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Performance is based on NAV with net income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world.
- Central banks in the developed world responded rapidly – cutting interest rates, restarting or expanding asset purchases and providing additional liquidity, all in an effort to blunt the economic impact of the virus – and pledged to do more if needed. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment generally improved in the second half of the year as vaccines were developed and the global economy appeared to regain its footing faster than many had expected.
- In Japan, a recession combined with massive fiscal stimulus to push the national government's budget deficit to 13.8% of economic output in 2020, up from 3.4% in 2019, according to International Monetary Fund estimates. For both years the figure slightly exceeded the advanced-economy average.
- The Japanese economy contracted 5.3% on a real (inflation-adjusted) basis in 2020, according to the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development. A collapse in exports meant that the country's economy was hit harder than the global economy, which shrank an estimated 4.2%. Japanese inflation slowed but remained above zero.
- In this environment, Japanese stocks did not fare as well as some others but did finish the year with a positive return. The fund's benchmark index returned 5.03% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2020.
- Results were positive in six of the index's 11 sectors. Communication services, information technology and health care contributed most.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

Performance is based on NAV with net income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Pacific ex-Japan Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI Pacific ex-Japan Index, which is made up of common stocks of companies located in the Pacific region.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world.
- Central banks in the developed world responded rapidly – cutting interest rates, restarting or expanding asset purchases and providing additional liquidity, all in an effort to blunt the economic impact of the virus – and pledged to do more if needed. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment generally recovered in the second half of the year as vaccines were developed and the global economy appeared to regain its footing faster than many had expected. The recovery was uneven, though. Returns in the United States, for example, outpaced those in emerging markets and especially those in Europe.
- Pacific markets excluding Japan also finished the year lower overall. The fund's benchmark index returned –2.25% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2020, as roughly half the sectors in the index produced negative returns.
- Materials, health care and information technology bolstered the index's returns the most. Real estate and industrials were the most notable detractors.
- Australian stocks, which account for more than half the index, had an essentially flat return and made a modest contribution to performance, as did New Zealand. Singapore and Hong Kong detracted.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard SRI European Stock Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund aims to provide long-term growth of capital by seeking to achieve the performance of the FTSE Developed Europe Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of large and mid-sized companies in developed countries in Europe.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world.
- Central banks in the developed world responded rapidly – cutting interest rates, restarting or expanding asset purchases and providing additional liquidity, all in an effort to blunt the economic impact of the virus – and pledged to do more if needed. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment generally improved in the second half of the year as vaccines were developed and the global economy appeared to regain its footing faster than many had expected. The period ended with the negotiation of a trade deal between the UK and the European Union.
- Global bonds were relatively volatile but produced solid returns overall. Stocks worldwide plummeted early in the fiscal year, but many rebounded as investors seemed to grow more optimistic. The recovery was uneven, though. Returns in the United States, for example, outpaced those in emerging markets and especially Europe. European markets suffered in part because of the larger presence of cyclical and value-oriented stocks, which generally underperformed more growth-oriented sectors during the period.
- The fund's index excludes stocks of companies that do not meet specific "socially responsible" criteria, based on a screening process applied objectively by the index provider. For the year, the fund's benchmark returned –2.71% as roughly half of the index sectors produced negative returns. Technology and basic materials contributed most to the index's performance. Financials and energy detracted the most.
- The Netherlands and Denmark contributed most to return. The United Kingdom and France, the two largest constituents in the index, hurt performance the most.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard U.S. 500 Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the S&P 500 Index, a widely recognised benchmark of US stock market performance that is dominated by the stocks of large US companies.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world.
- Central banks in the developed world responded rapidly – cutting interest rates, restarting or expanding asset purchases and providing additional liquidity, all in an effort to blunt the economic impact of the virus – and pledged to do more if needed. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment rebounded in the second half of the year as vaccines were developed and the global economy appeared to regain its footing faster than many had expected.
- Global bonds experienced volatility but produced a solid return. Stocks worldwide plummeted early in the year, but many rebounded as investors seemed to grow more optimistic about vaccines, the willingness of consumers to spend and the resiliency of the economy. The recovery was uneven, though. Returns in the United States, for example, outpaced those in emerging markets and especially those in Europe.
- In the US, the Federal Reserve maintained its 0%–0.25% target for short-term interest rates and said that it would continue to purchase at least $120 billion in Treasury and agency mortgage-backed securities each month.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 17.75%. Eight of 11 industry sectors recorded gains.
- Information technology, consumer discretionary and communication services contributed most to the benchmark's performance. Energy, financials and real estate detracted.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

1 Since-inception returns: Institutional Plus EUR Acc, 6 December 2013; Institutional Plus USD Acc, 19 December 2013.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard U.S. Opportunities Fund

Sub-managed by PRIMECAP Management Company.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by investing in stocks with above-average earnings growth potential that is not reflected in their current market prices.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements. The fund is actively managed and seeks to invest as described in the prospectus. The following performance information shows how the fund's returns compare with those of the Russell 3000 Index, a market index that has investment characteristics similar to those of the fund.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world.
- Central banks in the developed world responded rapidly – cutting interest rates, restarting or expanding asset purchases and providing additional liquidity, all in an effort to blunt the economic impact of the virus – and pledged to do more if needed. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment improved in the second half of the year as vaccines were developed and the global economy appeared to regain its footing faster than many had expected.
- Bonds worldwide experienced volatility but produced a solid return overall. Global stocks plummeted early in the year, but many rebounded as investors seemed to grow more optimistic about vaccines, the willingness of consumers to spend and the resiliency of the economy. The recovery was uneven, though. Returns in the United States, for example, outpaced those in emerging markets and especially those in Europe.
- In the US, the Federal Reserve maintained its 0%–0.25% target for short-term interest rates and said that it would continue to purchase at least $120 billion in Treasury and agency mortgage-backed securities each month.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned 20.27%. Seven of the index's 11 sectors recorded positive results.
- The fund's holdings in the health care, financial and communication services sectors contributed most to relative performance. Its holdings in industrials and information technology detracted most.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard 20+ Year Euro Treasury Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Barclays Euro Treasury 20+ Year Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of euro-denominated euro zone treasury securities with maturities of at least 20 years and a minimum credit rating of AA–.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world.
- Central banks in the developed world responded rapidly – cutting interest rates, restarting or expanding asset purchases and providing additional liquidity, all in an effort to blunt the economic impact of the virus – and pledged to do more if needed. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment improved as vaccines were developed and the global economy appeared to regain its footing faster than many had expected. The period ended with the negotiation of a trade deal between the UK and the European Union.
- Global stocks plummeted early in the year, but many rebounded as investor sentiment turned more optimistic. Global bonds also experienced high volatility. Early in the year, as the pandemic spread, liquidity in the bond markets eroded and the marginal yields of corporate issues widened relative to their government counterparts. However, central banks and safety-seeking investors helped global bonds post solid returns for the period.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 13.67% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2020.
- Austria posted a double-digit return, and France, the largest constituent in the index, also did well; the Netherlands, Germany and Finland were among the laggards.
- Bonds maturing in more than 30 years returned significantly more than those maturing in 20 to 30 years. From a credit-quality perspective, AA-rated Treasury bonds did better than those rated AAA.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Emerging Markets Bond Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide total return while generating a moderate level of income by investing primarily in bonds of issuers in emerging-market countries.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements. The fund is actively managed and seeks to invest as described in the prospectus. The following performance information shows how the fund's returns compare with those of the J.P. Morgan EMBI Global Diversified Index, a market index that has investment characteristics similar to those of the fund.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Central banks responded quickly as well. As of mid-December 2020, asset purchase programmes aimed at least partly at supporting domestic financial markets had been announced or implemented in Chile, India, Indonesia, South Africa and Turkey, among other countries, the World Bank said. The Central Bank of Brazil had been granted emergency power to purchase government bonds. Most emerging-market asset purchase programmes, however, equaled less than 2% of gross domestic product, a fraction of the 14%-of-gross-domestic-product average size of such programs in developed economies, according to the World Bank.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment rebounded in the second half of 2020. Confidence got boosts from the development and rollout of vaccines and signs that the global economy might regain its footing faster than many had been expecting.
- Bonds worldwide were relatively volatile. Early in the year, as the pandemic spread, bond market liquidity eroded and the marginal yields of corporate issues widened relative to their government counterparts. However, central banks and safety-seeking investors helped global bonds post solid returns for the period. The fund's benchmark index returned 5.26% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2020.
- Security selection drove the fund's performance relative to the benchmark in 2020, its first full year of operation. Bonds tied to Ecuador, Panama, Mexico and Brazil – which accounted for about 20% of the fund's assets by market value, on average during the period – were especially rewarding.
- At 31 December, less than half of the fund was invested in investment-grade securities, and the majority of its investment-grade holdings were rated BBB, just above speculative grade.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard Euro Government Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Barclays Euro Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of euro-denominated euro zone treasury and government-related securities with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures, and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world.
- Central banks in the developed world responded rapidly – cutting interest rates, restarting or expanding asset purchases and providing additional liquidity, all in an effort to blunt the economic impact of the virus – and pledged to do more if needed. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment improved in the second half of the year amid the development of vaccines and signs that the global economy might regain its footing faster than many had expected. The period ended with the negotiation of a trade deal between the UK and the European Union.
- Global bonds experienced volatility but produced solid returns. Global stocks overall posted double-digit gains. Returns in the United States outpaced those in emerging markets and especially Europe.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned 4.72% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2020.
- Among the larger constituents in the index, Italy, Austria and Belgium outperformed the index as a whole, while Germany and France lagged.
- By maturity, longer-dated bonds significantly outperformed. From a credit-quality perspective, results were mixed.

Performance is based on NAV with net income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world.
- Central banks in the developed world responded rapidly – cutting interest rates, restarting or expanding asset purchases and providing additional liquidity, all in an effort to blunt the economic impact of the virus – and pledged to do more if needed. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment improved with the development of vaccines and signs that the global economy was regaining its footing faster than many had expected.
- Global stocks plummeted early in the year, but many rebounded as investor sentiment turned more optimistic. Bonds worldwide were also relatively volatile. Early in the year, as the pandemic spread, liquidity in the bond markets eroded and the marginal yields of corporate issues widened relative to their government counterparts. However, central banks and safety-seeking investors helped global bonds post solid returns overall for the period. The year ended with the negotiation of a trade deal between the UK and the European Union.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 2.77% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2020.
- Corporate bonds, which accounted for more than half the index, performed in line with the index as a whole. Noncorporate bonds outperformed, while securitised debt underperformed.
- Belgium, Austria and the Netherlands outperformed the index as a whole, while the U.K., Germany and France were among the laggards.
- By maturity, longer-dated bonds significantly outperformed. From a credit-quality perspective, results were mixed.

Performance is based on NAV with net income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Eurozone Inflation-Linked Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Barclays Global Inflation-Linked: Eurozone – Euro CPI Index, a market-weighted index of euro-denominated inflation-linked government securities within the euro zone, designed to serve as a hedge against inflation in the euro zone region, with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world.
- Central banks in the developed world responded rapidly – cutting interest rates, restarting or expanding asset purchases and providing additional liquidity, all in an effort to blunt the economic impact of the virus – and pledged to do more if needed. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment improved with the development of vaccines and signs that the global economy was regaining its footing faster than many had expected.
- Global stocks plummeted early in the year, but many rebounded as investor sentiment turned more optimistic. Bonds worldwide were also relatively volatile. Early in the year, as the pandemic spread, liquidity in the bond markets eroded and the marginal yields of corporate issues widened relative to their government counterparts. However, central banks and safety-seeking investors helped global bonds post solid returns for the period. The year ended with the negotiation of a trade deal between the UK and the European Union.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 3.76% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2020.
- Italy outperformed the index as a whole, while France, the largest constituent in the index, underperformed.
- Bonds maturing in more than 20 years significantly outperformed. From a credit-quality perspective, bonds on the bottom rung of the investment-grade ladder returned the most.

Performance is based on NAV with net income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Global Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC, and sub-managed by Vanguard Investments Australia Ltd.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate Float Adjusted and Scaled Index Hedged, a market-weighted index of global government, government-related agency, corporate and securitised fixed income investments with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The year 2020 was defined by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition to its devastating human toll, the virus produced the most pronounced economic shock in living memory. Travel restrictions, supply-chain disruptions, business closures and a spike in unemployment led swiftly to deep recessions around the world.
- Central banks in the developed world responded rapidly – cutting interest rates, restarting or expanding asset purchases and providing additional liquidity, all in an effort to blunt the economic impact of the virus – and pledged to do more if needed. Many governments were quick to provide fiscal stimulus in the form of spending, loans, loan guarantees, job retention programmes and extended unemployment benefits.
- Despite continuing case surges in some regions, investor sentiment improved with the development of vaccines and signs that the global economy was regaining its footing faster than many had expected.
- Global stocks plummeted early in the year, but many rebounded as investor sentiment turned more optimistic. Global bonds also experienced high volatility. Early in the year, as the pandemic spread, liquidity in the bond markets eroded and the marginal yields of corporate issues widened relative to their government counterparts. However, central banks and safety-seeking investors helped global bonds post solid returns for the period.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned 6.28% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2020.
- Among the large constituents in the index, the United Kingdom, Italy and Canada performed well, while Japan and South Korea were among the laggards.
- Treasuries, which make up about half the fund, lagged corporate and noncorporate bonds but outpaced securitised debt.
- Bonds maturing in 20 years or more significantly outperformed. From a credit-quality perspective, results were mixed.

Performance is based on NAV with net income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.
